“CALLED TO BE SAINTS”

OR

“Catching the wind under your wings”

The Saints of the church, right from New Testament times until recent decades, have always been just ordinary people like you and me today – real people living in a real world, having to deal with real problems and praying each day for the wisdom and grace to deal with real situations. Saints are ordinary people who by God’s grace are enabled to do extraordinary things.

Today I ask that you reflect with me on the lives and stories of a few of the saints of the church, taken from across the timeline of the New Testament right through to more modern times. They are ordinary people who were shaped by a God who took their prayer seriously, leading them with a gentleness and wisdom that brought out the very best that lay deep within them.

As we listen again to those who dared to say – ‘Here I am Lord, it is I lord I have heard you calling in the night, I will go Lord where you lead me ...’ – let’s reflect on our readiness to pray the same prayer. Remember that God respects deeply and takes seriously such a prayer. As we open our wings (perhaps hesitantly) and run with determination (sometimes stumbling and wobbling) down this road - listen for the wind - feel its power - and soon we too will begin to rise off the ground,
